CAPITAL NEWS LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, March 12, 1900.

Republican senators are showing a disposition to get together on the Porto Rican bill. While it cannot yet be stated to a certainty what changes will be made, it seems likely that the bill will be amended so as to provide for the free entry of all American goods in Porto Rico.

The action of the senate committee on foreign relations in amending the Nicaragua canal treaty, so as to reserve to the United States authority to defend the canal in any way it may see fit in time of war seems to meet with general approval. There is no reason to suppose that the amendment will be objected to by England. In fact, it cannot very well be objected to since the amendment is in almost the exact language of a clause in the treaty under which the Suez canal was constructed.

In view of its effect upon our revenues, referring the reciprocity treaty with France to the senate finance committee for consideration and report before voting upon it, seems a sensible move. There is much guessing going on as to when the treaty will be voted upon, but those who ought to know believe that it will be acted upon at the present session.

Representative Heggbum, of Iowa, has introduced a short bill that would, if enacted into a law, put an end to prize fighting in this country. It provides that no picture or description of any prize fight or pugilistic encounter, or any proposal for betting on a fight, shall be transmitted through the mail or by any common carrier engaged in interstate commerce, whether in a newspaper or periodical, or in any other form. Without publicity, prize fighting could not be made to pay, and the money made out of it is the only reason for its existence.

Senator Lodge thinks the officer commanding our army should have a higher rank than any other officer, and has introduced a joint resolution giving to the senior major general, while commanding the army, the rank, pay and emoluments of lieutenant general. Representative Moody, of Massachusetts, offered the resolution in the house.

Representative Brosius, of Pennsylvania, who has earned a reputation for level-headedness, voiced the opinion of many republicans when he said: "There is a difference between a philosopher and a statesman. A statesman must keep his feet on the ground while a philosopher may be permitted to do more or less theorizing. Therefore I regret this tendency to yell out against the republican party at this time, particularly on the part of some very prominent republicans. I firmly believe that the republican party is able to meet successfully any problem that confronts it, and we ought to be willing to wait with patience for the solution of the great problems attending the possession of our new islands."

Col. George Bohon, of Kentucky, who is credited with knowing the politics of his state, said to a group of friends, in a Washington hotel: "Unless the Goebel law is repealed, Kentucky will go republican as sure as candidates for the office of president are nominated, and the state will go republican so hard that it will never get back into the democratic ranks."

An object lesson on the credit of nations was furnished by the action of the British government in offering English consols, bearing 2 1/2 per cent interest, to American investors—the first time such an offer was ever made—at 98 3/4 per cent of their face value, and by the financial bill, devised by republicans, which will this week become a law. This bill provides for refunding the entire bonded indebtedness of the United States into 2 per cent bonds, lower than any nation has ever floated bonds, and assurances have already been received that the new bonds will be gladly taken at par by the holders of the old ones. That is the sort of statesmanship the republicans give this nation. They were not satisfied that our credit should be as good as that of any other nation, but have made it better than that of the best.

The passage by the German reichstag, of the bill aimed at American meat products, has not produced a pleasant feeling in Washington, but neither in congress nor in administration circles is there any disposition to publicly criticize the matter in its present stage. It is easy to infer, however, from what is said by those who are in position to make good their words, that if Germany deliberately invites a commercial conflict with us, she will be made to deeply regret having done so.

Senator Blaine has put a stop to the talk of his being a candidate for vice president, by saying that he doesn't wish the office and that he does wish to remain in the senate. He also expressed the opinion that President McKinley should be allowed to choose the candidate for vice president.

Representative Ray is to be chairman of the special committee of seven, authorized by Representative Overstreet's resolution to consider bills and resolutions relating to trusts.

The senate declined to accept Senator Hoar's proposal to pension the ex-queen of Hawaii.

THE WORKMAN'S CORNER.

This column will be devoted to the interests of the working man as outlined by our Waukegan correspondent.

THE PASSING OF TIME.

How imperceptibly radical changes occur in our lives. The older residents can remember when many customs prevailed with an intensity and fervor that seems strange that they have disappeared—glided away so gradually, so silently, so effectually as though they had never existed. It was only the other day, when I had occasion to pass by the numerous factories on the lake shore front, with their hundreds of brilliantly lighted windows, as they were, by electricity, suggesting an air of comfort for the employees in singular contrast to old times when, if we worked nights, it was in a cold shack of a shop dimly lighted by a tallow candle. The contrast struck me as to the physical improvement of modern facilities and methods most favorably. It suggested other memories long since forgotten in the rapid march of time and progress of civilization. It is something of a question whether it is desirable to return to old methods however pleasant they may seem in some respects. I believe it would prove unsatisfactory if suddenly placed back amid those old conditions.

We can note but a few in this connection among which a short contrast is apparent, viz: The preachers do not talk to us as they did fifty years ago, neither do the politicians, and yet, both have the same end in view—success—but we trust not on the same lines. In the latter case, while pleading patriotism to the people, they did not resort to the disreputable practices of today. No such talk as "a barrel tapped at both ends" to secure a nomination as is currently reported as occurring on street corners and other public places. A trial, now in force for gigantic bribery, before the United States senate, and open, public charges made at the same time that the primaries of our political system are carried by the same means. What a lesson for the rising generation is here taught. What a contrast between precept and example. The blessed people are useful in voting for candidates who are able to pay for their offices, as well as to pay the majority of taxes.

The workman's club-room is assailed by the reformer, while the politician reinforces the internal revenue by a further tax on his trade; and who's to blame? It is said, for a partial answer, by one who seems to know what he is talking about: "As a rule only about 15 per cent of the voters of Chicago attend the primaries, and these are mostly ward healers and tax-eaters." Verily the ship of state is tending toward the rocks.

THE ORIGIN OF TAMMANY HALL.

It may be of interest to many readers of THE NEWS to learn the origin of the name Tammany Hall, the supposed headquarters of the democratic party. Occasionally reference is made to Tammany schemes, or chiefs, not always respectfully, if we judge by such names as Boss Tweed, Croker, etc. In view then of its venerable, famous and familiar history it may be well to reproduce what tradition says of it. Lossing's Field Book of the Revolution, in a footnote, has the following interesting account: "Tradition currently reports the renowned chief Tamene, or St. Tammany, was buried near a spring about three and one-half miles west from Doyleston in this (Bucks) county. He was an unequalled chief among the Delawareans." Heckwelder says that when Col. George Morgan, of Princeton, visited the western Indians, by order of congress in 1776, he was beloved for his goodness, that the Delawareans conferred upon him the name of their venerable chief. Morgan brought back to the whites such glowing accounts of the qualities of that ancient chief, that in the Revolutionary war, he was dubbed a saint, and his name placed on some calendars. He was called by politicians St. Tammany, and established as the patron saint of republican America.

Tammany societies were organized and Tammany halls dedicated, and on the first of May (the festival of the saint) meetings of the societies were held. "On that day," says Heckwelder, "numerous societies of his votaries walked together in procession through the streets of Philadelphia, their hats decorated with buck's tails, and proceeded to a handsome rural place out of town, which they called the wigwam, where, after a long talk, or Indian speech had been delivered, and the culmet of peace and friendship had been duly smoked, they spent the day in festivity and mirth."

The Tammany society of New York is yet in existence, 1848. Its meetings are held regularly at Tammany Hall on the east side of the city hall park.

The Growth of Trees.

The elm tree is full grown at the age of 150, ash at 100 and the oak at 200 years. The growth of an elm is about two and a half feet per annum; that of an oak less than one foot.

Swamp Secret

mp Secret

"Dick, you're a quick one for him," Hattie whispered aside to Mr. Wayne, as he struck at the apple. "You're a smart one, Dick," she said, and she grappled him by the shoulder and his elbows, and swung him over her all fence into the road.

"There, that solves your difficulty about getting past the rat," he said, in a tone that was steady with concentrated passion. "I don't care to have any further trouble with you; but if you don't let me alone and keep out of my way, I'll give you something you won't forget for many a day to come."

"Curse you! Curse you! Curse you!" hissed Wayne through bloody lips, as he struggled to his feet, his eyes full of dangerous fire. "I'll make you sorry for this before we've done with each other!" Then he turned and walked away while Dick went back to the house and upstairs to bed, feeling more at ease with all mankind than he had for some time past.

CHAPTER VI.

When Dick saw Wayne's face next morning he had to smile. It was purple between the eyes, and there was a bad bruise running up the forehead where his knuckles had cut into the flesh.

"I'll be some days before you get rid of my mark, my fine fellow!" Dick thought, as he looked his antagonist over coolly.

Wayne gave him one black look, and that was all. But it was sufficient to convince Dick that the trouble between them had just begun. Wayne was as a man to forget or overlook an injury. He would repay debts of that kind with interest, if possible to do so.

"I wonder what's happened to the singin' teacher?" Samantha called out to Dick, across the road, when he came to the field opposite Mr. Porter's to plow.

"What do you mean?" asked Dick, pretending to be in ignorance of her meaning.

"Has something happened to him?"

"I sh'd say there had," answered Samantha, with a broad grin. "He looks as if he's run ag'n suthin'." His face bore the color of his black calico dress. "I washed it the first time—in spots—either black nor blue, but kind o' purp'n an' between. An', my goodness, don't he look sour, though? Ezza, he askt him what the matter was, and he growled out suthin' about a fall. I didn't know what kind of a fall it might have been, but I thought 'phurs you did.'"

"I shouldn't wonder if I did," answered Dick. "He did run aginst something—this—" and he held up his clinched hand. "And he did have a fall. He fell over the fence. Ask him about it, Samantha."

"I will so," answered Samantha, with twinkling eyes.

When Nannie came home from school that day, she gave Dick one scornful, indignant look, and then took no more notice of him.

"Wayne has filled her head with plausible stories about our quarrel, I suppose," thought Dick. "Of course, she considers me the one to blame. I am the villain, and he is the angel. Well, I don't know as I care very much what she thinks about in one way or the other."

Mr. Wayne and Nannie went to the singing school together, and Dick concluded to go, too. He felt sure that there would be much comment about the condition of Wayne's face, and he wanted to hear what was said.

"I'll go 'round by Rhoda's," he made up his mind; and so he set off across the woods by the path leading to the Stevens place. Rhoda was just starting for singing school when he came out to the road, in company with her 10-year-old brother Ned. She said: "Good evening, pleasantly to Dick, and he took the part beside her, while Ned, glad to get chance to get away, like all small boys under similar circumstances, ran on ahead and left them to come at the leisure."

"How do you get along learning singing?" asked Dick, presently, at a look for anything else to say.

"Oh, ever so much better than I expected to," answered Rhoda.

"Wayne is so kind—He takes so much pains to help me, I—I wonder whether he has been all day."

And then Rhoda looked rather confused, as if she had come near betraying a secret.

"I don't know," answered Dick. "What do you ask, Rhoda?"

"Oh, I haven't seen 'him, and—didn't know."

Then she paused abruptly, for Dick's eyes were upon her, and she felt as if she were reading her thoughts.

"Does he come to see you, Rhoda?" asked Dick.

"Yes, once in a while—to help me along about my singing," answered Rhoda rather reluctantly.

"Is that all?" asked Dick. "Are you sure he doesn't come to say sentiment things, and try to make you think he has a particular friendship for you?"

"I've told you what he comes for," said Rhoda, with an air of petulance. "I said that I have naturally a very good voice, and with proper cultivation of it I can become a very fine singer. And—" when you was sparkin'!" suggested a young man. "Mebbe you'd n' fit of the law!"

"Nobody interfered 'twixt me an' Sar' Ann," said the deacon; "so I can't say what I would ha' done under sich circumstances. Per my part, I think Dick to blame. Ef the singin' teacher cut him out with Nance, he'd order griv' an' bea' it an' not try to hit even by thumppin' him. Told her so, an' a good riddance." "I'd say," said Sar' Ann, had been foolish enough to give me the slip, I'd ha' le' her went, an' told the feller that got her to make the most o' it. He'd a' had the wust on't, I reckon." And the deacon chuckled as he wouldn't have dared do if Sar' Ann had been there to hear him.

When the session was over, Dick went up to Rhoda, who was standing by the door.

"May I walk home with you?" he asked.

"No, sir," she replied curtly, and turned her back on him.

"Poor, foolish girl!" Dick thought, and walked away through the twilight alone.

Prigntening the Llon.

Monsieur Fon, the French explorer, says that lllons have a wholesome fear of African wolves, which hunt in packs and do not scruple to attack even the lllon. There are terrible battles in which the lllon succumbs to numbers and dies fighting. In connection with the lllon's fear of wolves, Monsieur Fon tells a story from his own experience.

It was a very dark night, so black that trees could not be distinguished until the travelers were close upon them. Lllons prowled about the party, one of them roaring from a point so close as to have an alarming effect on the nerves. The animals could not be seen, but they could be heard on all sides.

Reaching a tree, the men found one of their comrades with rifle cocked, peering into the darkness, trying to discover the whereabouts of the animals, till could be plainly heard walking among the leaves. A second man was trying to relight a half-extinguished torch. Still the lllons could be heard coming and going in the darkness.

At this point the native servant whispered the advice to imitate the cry of wolves in the distance. The party at once began barking and shouting, "Hu! hu! hu!" in an undertone, as if the pack were still at a distance, while the men at the camp made the same well-imitated cry.

The effect was instantaneous. There was the sound of a rapid stampede across the dark leaves. The lllons decamped in a panic, driven off by the supposed approach of a pack of wolves. For the rest of the night the party was undisturbed.—You'll's Companion.

Why He Was Afraid to Bid.

At an auction sale of miscellaneous goods at a country store the auctioneer put up a buggy robe of fairly good quality. An old farmer inspected closely; seemed to think there was bargain in it and yet he hesitated to bid.

"Think it cheap," asked the auctioneer, crying a 10-cent bid.

"Yes, kinder," was the reply.

"Then why don't you bid and get it?"

"Wall, I've bought heaps o' things dry goods and so on," slowly rejoined the old man, "and I never yet took home anything that the old woman thought was worth the price. If I get that robe robe for even 15 cents she'll grab it up, pull at one end, chaw on corner and call out, 'Cheated again, more'n a half cotton!' That's th' reason I dasn't bid."—Ohio State Journal.

A Thief's Cleverness.

We do not remember to have seen for a long time a more curious case of a thief's cleverness than that which was recorded at Clerkenwell yesterday. Solomon Butler, who, with a companion, was convicted of burglary in a jeweler's shop, managed to conceal two diamond rings in spite of the most thorough search by the police, and contrived to pass one of them away to his wife when he was in the cells, "putting it into her mouth by means of his tongue when kissing her." The other he kept under his tongue all the time he was under arrest, and it would probably never have been found at it if his companion had not exposed him in court, and so induced the Judge to order a careful inspection of his mouth.—London Globe.

Giuseppe—Joo-sep-pay.
Irascible—Ir-as-ible, not ir-ras-ible.
Provost—Prov-ost, or pro-vo. Western Insists on second pronunciation.
Yeast—Yeast is now more generally used than ceast.
Zanzibar—Zan-zib-ar. —Indianapolis Press.

What She Told Him.

The pastor of a church in Washington, on leaving his study, which is the rear of the church, saw a little girl a friend of his, talking to a stranger.

"What was that man saying to you, Midge?" asked the minister, as he came up to the little girl.

"Oh, he just wanted to know if Dr. was the preacher of this church."

"And what did you tell him?"

"I told him," she said, with dignity, "that you were the present incumbent."

TEMPEST IN BRITISH WAR OFFICE.

Flight Between Lansdowne and Wolseley Is Bitter.

As the result of British unsuccess in South Africa in the war with the Boers much criticism is being directed against the British war office and considerable friction has arisen between the secretary of war, Lord Lansdowne, and the commander-in-chief of the army, Lord Wolseley. The followers of each accuse the other of being responsible for England's unpreparedness when the crucial time arrived and it is probable that as the outcome of the agitation one or the other will have to retire. Parliament will inquire into the matter and interesting developments are expected.

Lord Lansdowne comes from one of the oldest and wealthiest families in the kingdom, dating to the twelfth century. He succeeded his father, the fourth mar-

He has been in office almost steadily for the last thirty years, his highest post previous to that of he holds now having been that of governor general of India from 1888 to 1893. Previous to that he was governor general of Canada. Lord Lansdowne was a Liberal until Mr. Gladstone's home rule bill sent him over to the other side. His reward was the appointment by Lord Salisbury to be governor general of India, and after his return thence to be secretary of state for war.

Just before Lansdowne stepped into this office Gen. Wolseley became commander-in-chief, succeeding the old Duke of Cambridge, the Queen's first cousin, who had held the office forty years.

Wint has caused the greatest agitation is the affair of Gen. Buller. He had been in command in South Africa until the outbreak of the war and upon him the Government relied for information as to the Boer strength. When the war broke out and England was unprepared people openly charged that Gen. Buller was either blind or a traitor. But now it transpires that Gen. Buller not

Some of Gen. Buller's supporters are saying that he backed Sir William Buller, but that the Marquis of Lansdowne resolved to

ROMANCE OF AN EGG.

The Means of Uniting an Iowa Girl and a U. S. Employee.

For a full-fledged romance to hatch from a common hen's egg is a rather extraordinary occurrence, but this is what has transpired as the result of an idle action of a pretty Iowa girl and the mysterious nature of a Government employee in Cuba. The egg acting as a means of introduction.

The opening chapter of the romance dates from last summer, when the egg reached Miss Lizzie Gilday, a clerk in an egg-exporting establishment in West Dodge, Iowa. During a period of rest Miss Gilday inscribed her name and address on a large white egg with indelible ink. It was shipped with a big consignment to a New York dealer, and made part of one of the first shipments of American eggs to Cuba. The egg at last came into the possession of Charles P. H. Smith, one of the United States civil service men at Havana, and he noticed the address. He wrote to Miss Gilday and in due season received a reply.

In the near future Mr. Smith will journey to Iowa, and as soon as arrangements can be completed, will, it is said, return to Cuba with the bride which was brought to him by an egg.

On Wednesday evening, March 19, in the M. W. A. hall, the "Old Maids' Convention" will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. Everybody has a cordial invitation to attend, all bachelors included. This promises to be a great treat so you cannot afford to miss it. Admission, adults 20c; children under 12 years 10c.

There was a large attendance at the yearly meeting of the Ladies Church Aid we wish that the league room could be filled to overflowing every Sabbath evening. The subject next Sunday evening is How to become a Christian, led by the pastor.

There will be an excellent literary entertainment given at the hall next Tuesday evening, March 20, by the literary department of the Epworth League. There will be recitations, dialogues and tableaux. There will be excellent music rendered both instrumental and vocal. The program will open with a chorus of many voices, after which Mr. Bain will render a solo. There will be solos, duets and trios. Mrs. Sniggles, the widow of Father Sniggles, accompanied by her eight talented daughters, will be there. Come and see them.

FOX LAKE, ILL.

Mpd and sluch is getting plenty.

The Fox Lake school closed Friday for the winter.

VOLO, ILL.

Mr. Lobdell is still very poorly.

Robins made their appearance today; the first visit this year.

E. Richardson was in the city Tuesday to purchase a stock of spring goods.

Mr. Gardiner is considered no better. Dr. Shaffer, of Grayslake is in attendance.

William Richardson and family have moved into their own cottage near the M. E. church.

Mr. Wright and family have bought the Botsford place west of Volo. We welcome them to our village.

George Stanford, of Chicago, is at the farm this week looking after his stock. He has bought a car load of corn and a number of tons of hay.

All were pleased to meet our new neighbors at church last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Graves and daughter, of Chicago. They will live at the Grainger residence, north of Fish Lake this year.

There was no preaching service at the M. E. church last Sunday. Rev. Dutton conducted a funeral in Waukegan. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis were called to part with another child. Interment at Waukegan cemetery. They have the sympathy of friends in this their sad bereavement.

The ladies of the Volo Aid Society meet with the mesdames Raught's next Wednesday afternoon, March 21, to tie comforters. All the ladies in the neighborhood are invited to meet with them, if members of the society or not—all will be welcome.

LAKE VILLA.

Mrs. Cragg is convalescent.

Mrs. Lowery, of Fox Lake, is ill.

Mrs. George Eames has been quite poorly this winter.

Nothing has not come but our barber has shaved him a job.

We hear that Mr. Bernides is going to the station agent.

Mrs. Flora Kerr and Mrs. Frazier spent Monday in the city.

Frequent high tide parties were indulged in at the Lake Villaites last week.

John D. has returned from his stay at Waukegan from service on the grand jury.

Mrs. G. is visiting her parents at Hebron, before they leave for their new home.

The Ladies' Aid society meets with Mrs. Hughes Wednesday, March 21. All are invited.

The church meets to practice this week on Thursday and Saturday evenings with Miss Flora Kerr.

There is some talk of having a free postal delivery with Lake Villa as center of distribution.

Ella Gibson left last Monday for Lodi, where she has a place to work. Ella will be missed in the church and Sunday school.

We were glad to see Bro. H. O. Shephard's face in church again last Sabbath. His appearance indicates that he was well taken care of while gone.

One of the threatened weather last morning there was a good attendance at church. Some coming from Monticello and other distant places in the country.

There will be a temperance rally held in the church next Sunday evening at 7:30. The program will render temperance selections and songs. Hopper, a state officer of the W. C. T. U., will speak. Everybody come and bring your friends.

The Epworth League meeting last Sunday evening was well attended and full of interest. When we think of the interest, instruction, the spiritual uplift and intercourse the league affords and is so much needed by old and young

ROLLINS, ILL.

Some of the married people got up a sleigh load and surprised Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Hook last Wednesday evening. They set the example and the young folks were not slow in following as they had just arrived there when the young folks arrived. A very pleasant evening was spent. Mr. Hurd brought his violin and they tripped the light fantastic until the wee small hours in the morn. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. Doolittle, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wedge, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hook, Misses Annie and Hattie Wilton, Jennie Brown, Maude Edwards, Mary Hook, Jennie and Bertha Donskie, Avi and Eva Doolittle and Carrie Austin, Messrs Roy Edwards, Clarence Doolittle, Ed. Brown, Floyd Harvey, Ralph Wilmington, Ed. Hook, John Morse, Chas. Kipple, Lee Hendee and Lee Penlon.

Wm. Watts was a Woodstock visitor Monday.

Chas. Hurness is calling on friends here at present.

Jake Adams is moving this week to Ringwood.

Seymour Orris, of Trevor, spent Sunday with relatives on English Prairie.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Johnson, of Capron, drove over Friday afternoon returning Tuesday.

Mark and Philip Hoffman, of Terra Cotta, were attending to business here Saturday.

James Ostoby has moved from the Frank Richardson farm to the Ostoby farm that he purchased some time ago.

Matthew Smith and daughter Mabel, from Lake Geneva, were down Sunday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Craine.

James Neish, W. C. Moss and Frank Orris were the republican delegates from Burton to the county convention at Woodstock Monday.

The next meeting of the R. N. of A. Nipersink camp, will be Tuesday evening, March 13. The initiation of two new members will take place.

The many friends and acquaintances here of Squire Reynolds, of Belvidere, were startled to hear of his death which occurred Feb. 23, 1900, after an illness of ten days and continued poor health for the past three months. He was well known here, having made frequent visits to the home of his daughter, the late Mrs. Fred Hatch.

His wife and two daughters, Mrs. J. Sherman of Chicago, and Mrs. Chas. Bennett of Belvidere, survive him. He has held the office of justice of the peace in North Belvidere for many years and there is hardly a citizen of Belvidere that will be more missed, he being a liberal, broad-minded citizen always ready to assist another in time of need. The I. O. O. F. had charge of the funeral obsequies.

The many friends of Mrs. John Craine were grieved to learn of her death, Feb. 28, after a long sickness. For the past four years it has been known that Mrs. Craine's chances for recovery were slight, but with each passing season it was hoped that she might be spared, but the brave struggle is over and she is now at rest. To all the loss is very great, she having possessed a strong, beautiful nature that benefitted all that came in contact with her friends were without number and she leaves a large number of relatives to mourn the empty chair. Her aged father, over 90 years old, her husband, and son Kirk, three sisters and one brother of her immediate family. The funeral was held Sunday, Ray, Cross of Richmond officiating. Many friends from a distance were present. The interment took place in the Wray-Imerson cemetery.

A Fiendish Attack.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which effected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at all drug stores.

Free to Inventors.

The experience of C. A. Snow & Co. in obtaining more than 20,000 patents for inventors has enabled them to helpfully answer many questions relating to the protection of intellectual property. They have done in a pamphlet treating briefly of United States and foreign patents, with cost of same, and how to procure them; trade marks, designs, caveats, infringements, decisions in leading patent cases. This pamphlet will be sent free to anyone writing to C. A. Snow & Co., Washington, D. C.

Petroleum on the Coast.

The petroleum output in southern California now amounts to about 45,000 barrels a day, and it is all consumed upon the Pacific coast. It was discovered about ten years ago, and has been in use for about five years. A tank steamer runs regularly between Santa Barbara and San Francisco, carrying refined petroleum to the latter market. The Southern Pacific runs its local trains by oil, and it is also consumed as fuel in several manufacturing establishments in this section. There is no smoke and no cinders. The locomotive tenders on the Santa Fe road are big tanks, and the engineer feeds the fire with a key.

Women Musical Doctors.

Mrs. Theodore Suto of New York is henceforth entitled to write "Mus. Doc." after her name. She is one of only two women in the English-speaking world with the same distinction. The other is the Princess of Wales. Recently she received this rare distinction from the hands of Dr. Ernst Eberhard, president of the Grand Conservatory of Music of the city of New York.

Perfectly Natural.

Actor—When I stand on the stage I see nothing and am conscious of nothing except the role I am playing. The audience disappears entirely. Friend—Well, I can't blame the audience much for that!—The Rival.

MILK AND WATER.

Milk is food. Water is not food. Nurse the baby on water and it will not live long. But many a mother who supposes she is buying real milk is getting half water, and she wonders why the baby frets and looks thin and pale.

What water is to milk so substitute medicine is to Dr. Pierce's. This is why there is nothing "just as good" as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of diseases ordered or weak stomach, ach, indigestion, bronchitis, influenza, coughs, sore throat, weak lungs, bleeding lungs, and kindred affections, which, if neglected or badly treated, lead up to consumption. If you ask for Dr. Pierce's remedies and the dealer won't supply you, go to another store. Your health is of greater importance than any extra profit he may make on the substitute. The imitation substitute can not imitate the cures. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is absolutely non-alcoholic and non-narcotic. It can be safely relied upon by temperance people. It is not only the safest, but also the surest remedy for the stomach, blood, throat and lungs.

"My wife had a severe attack of pleurisy and lung trouble," writes Abram Freer, Reg., of Rockbridge, Green Co., Ill. "The doctors gave her up to die. She commenced to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and improved from the first dose. By the time she had taken eight or ten bottles she was cured, and it was the cause of a large amount being sold here. I think the 'Golden Medical Discovery' is the best medicine in the world for lung trouble."

For 21 one-cent stamps to pay postage, you can get a free copy of the Common Sense Medical Adviser, a work of 1008 pages. Cloth bound and stamps. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Practically all high-class newspaper readers, comprising and middle classes in Chicago and Italy, read The Chicago Tribune. The Chicago Tribune prints and advertises year in and year out the any newspaper in the West.

EXPANSION IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN.

The wise poor man who bought a farm on easy payments, and the wise manufacturer who erected a factory in Northern Wisconsin a few years ago, when times were not so prosperous as they are now, are reaping their reward. Northern Wisconsin is feeling expansion in the truest sense of the word. Opportunities have not passed by any means. There are still thousands of acres of rich hardwood timber lands awaiting the settler as well as the manufacturer which can be obtained at low figures and on easy terms. Good roads, fine school houses and other improvements are increasing and civilization is progressing. The abundance of iron ore, clay, knoll, marl and timber lands supplies the wants of everybody.

Transportation Facilities

Are unexcelled. The Wisconsin Central Railway, a strictly Butler State road, pierces the rich northern portion of the state, offering excellent transit service to the markets of the world. Those interested can obtain maps, illustrated pamphlets, etc., by applying to W. H. Killen, Land and Industrial Commissioner, Colby & Abbot Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis. Burton Johnson, G. F. A. Jas. C. Ford, G. P. A., Milwaukee, Wis.

On last Saturday evening a jolly party of Royal Neighbors and Woodmen numbering 25 or more loaded in sleighs and started for a ride. After riding eight or ten miles some sleighs in the company suggested stopping at the home of N. Crowley and wife. After a short time spent socially the sleigh was spread with elegant refreshments and the party returned home all having had a most enjoyable time.

J. A. Watier and Robert Selter have purchased the good will and fixtures of the Spring Well Bottling Works, of Grass Lake, from E. A. Boydell and will supply the trade this summer with a first class article in all kinds of carbonated beverages and solicit a share of public patronage. The firm will be known as Selter & Watier and orders may be sent to them by long distance telephone at their expense. Their postoffice address is Grass Lake, Ill.

My mother suffered with chronic diarrhoea for several months. She was attended by two physicians who at last pronounced her case hopeless. She procured one 25-cent bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and five doses gave her permanent relief. I take pleasure in recommending it as the best on the market.—Mrs. F. E. Watson, Aiken, Ala. Sold by W. H. Emmons, Antioch; Thomson's Pharmacy, Grayslake, Ill.

All those interested in raising poultry, whether for the pit or market, are requested to meet at the Simons House, Antioch, Illinois, on Saturday, March 31, 1902, at two o'clock p. m., at which time and place it is desired to perfect an organization to be known as The Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin Poultry and Pit Stock Association. If successful in perfecting the organization it is intended and hoped that the association may be able to hold a poultry show in Antioch next winter in conjunction with the Farmers' Institute.

A. R. DeFuent, editor of the Journal, Doylestown, Ohio, suffered for a number of years from rheumatism in his right shoulder and side. He says: "My right arm at times was entirely useless. I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and was surprised to receive relief almost immediately. The Pain Balm has been a constant companion of mine ever since and it never fails." For sale by W. H. Emmons, Antioch; Thomson's Pharmacy, Grayslake.

The masque social given by the Royal Neighbors at Woodman hall on Wednesday evening of last week was an enjoyable affair and largely attended, over two hundred persons being present. The costumes worn were varied and many of them comical in the extreme, nearly one-half of those present being thus arrayed. An interesting program was arranged, consisting of recitations and musical selections, the feature of the program being a cake walk by the Misses Susie Morley and Millie Soule, in which the young ladies closely imitated two colored belles of old Virginia. After the program the several dozen baskets containing lunch for two were disposed of and the search for partners or owners of the baskets began, in which some few were unsuccessful.

No Light Drinker.
Mudge—Yes, I do take a few drinks of an evening, but none during the day. I am no daylight drinker. Yabaley—No one ever accused you of being any kind of a light drinker.—The Rival.

What's Your Life Worth?
Sometime a fortune, but never, if you have a sallow complexion, a jaundiced look, moth patches and blotches on the skin, all signs of liver trouble. But Dr. King's New Life Pills give clear skin, rosy cheeks, rich complexion. Only 25 cents at all drug stores.

Heavy Luggage.
In the early days of Rome the women of that city wore such heavy earrings that they made their ears sore and sometimes tore the lobes. There were doctors whose business was chafery to heal ears thus injured.
